COURSES OF STUDY.

The College makes provision for thorough instruction in the essentials of a liberal education, without attempting to do the special work of the polytechnic schools on the one hand or that of the university on the other. The course of higher instruction leading to collegiate degrees occupies four years, and embraces courses in (1) Languages, ancient and modern, (2) Mathematics, (3) Natural Science, (4) History, and (5) Philosophy and Political Science. Further information upon this head may be had upon application to the President.

ORAL INSTRUCTION.

Instruction in articulation and speech-reading is offered to all the students of the college. Special pains are taken to preserve and improve, by suitable and frequent oral exercises, whatever powers of speech and ability to read the lips are possessed by students on entering the College.

ADMISSION.

Applicants for admission to the Introductory Class are required to be able to express their thoughts in connected English and to comprehend the language of the ordinary text-books of the common schools. A command of English to this extent is essential to the satisfactory and successful prosecution of the studies of this class. Pupils born deaf, or deaf from early infancy, who have acquired this ability and are also well grounded in the elementary studies of the public schools, may be encouraged to seek the privileges of the College. In the case of pupils who retain a fair command of language after becoming deaf, the danger of superficial preparation in the rudiments of the elementary studies is very great. Such pupils should be made acquainted with the real state of affairs, and should not be recommended for admission to the Introductory Class without thorough training in the elementary branches. In all cases thorough familiarity with arithmetic is insisted upon.

Candidates for the Introductory Class are examined in the following subjects :

1. The command of English as shown (1) in oral or finger-spelled conversation ; (2) in rendering, at sight, paragraphs selected from school-books and from newspapers ; (3) in extemporaneous English composition. Candidates for admission to the Introductory Class are expected to present evidence of having read carefully a given number of prescribed books, and to answer simple questions upon the lives of their authors. The form of examination will usually be the writing of a paragraph or two on each of several topics, to be chosen by the candidate from a considerable number—say ten or fifteen—set before him in the examination paper. His treatment of these topics is taken as a test of the candidate's power of clear and accurate expression, but will call for only a general knowledge of the subject-matter of the book. In place of a part or the whole of this test, the candidate may present an exercise book, properly certified by his instructor, containing compositions or other written work done in connection with the reading of the books. The books required to be read for the examinations of 1901 are GREEK HEROES, by Charles Kingsley. Ginn & Co.'s "Classics for Children." Boards, 35 cents. Cloth, 50 cents.—TALES OF CHIVALRY, selected from the works of Sir Walter Scott and edited by W. J. Rolfe. Harper & Bros. Cloth, 36 cents.—TWICE-TOLD TALES, by Nathaniel Hawthorne. Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s "Riverside Literature Series." Cloth, 50 cents.—EVANGELINE, by H. W. Longfellow. Same publishers and series as next above. Paper, 15 cents. Linen, 25 cents.—LIFE AND ADVENTURES OF ROBINSON CRUSOE, by Daniel De Foe. Ginn & Co.'s "Classics for Children." Boards, 35 cents. Cloth, 50 cents.

2. Arithmetic.
3. English Grammar.
4. History of the United States.
5. History of England to the beginning of the reign of Henry VII.
6. Political Geography.
7. Physical Geography.
8. Elements of Natural Philosophy.*

* In preparing for the Introductory Class the following text-books are preferred: Houston's Physical Geography, Higginson's History of the United States, Gage's Introduction to Physical Science, Longman's School Grammar, Higginson and Channing's English History, and the Franklin or Eaton's Grammar-School Arithmetic, or a work of equal grade. Pupils are recommended to master Miss Barton's Language Lessons in Arithmetic before studying a Grammar-School Arithmetic.

It will be noticed that preparation for these examinations only requires proficiency within the curriculum of the common schools. Candidates for the Introductory Class are not examined in Latin or algebra, as these studies are begun in this class.

Candidates for the Freshman Class are examined in all the studies of the Introductory Class, in addition to the studies required for admission to that class. In the Latin examination less importance is attached to the amount of literature read than to the familiarity with the essential principles of Latin etymology and syntax evinced in translating and parsing selections from any familiar author.

Testimonials of good moral character are required of all applicants for admission.

The charge for board and tuition in the College is two hundred and fifty dollars for the academic year. Congress, however, makes provision for the free admission of residents of the District of Columbia who have not the means of supporting themselves, and for a limited number from the States and Territories.

Applicants for admission may, if they so desire, be examined at the schools where they are making preparation for College, and question papers will be furnished on the application of any Principal or Superintendent of an Institution or School for the Deaf.

All applications for information or admission should be addressed to the President of the College, Kendall Green, near Washington, D. C.

COURSES OF STUDY.

The College makes provision for thorough instruction in the essentials of a liberal education, without attempting to do the special work of the polytechnic schools on the one hand or that of the university on the other. The course of higher instruction leading to collegiate degrees occupies four years, and embraces courses in (1) Languages, ancient and modern, (2) Mathematics, (3) Natural Science, (4) History, and (5) Philosophy and Political Science. Further information upon this head may be had upon application to the President.

ORAL INSTRUCTION.

Instruction in articulation and speech-reading is offered to all the students of the college. Special pains are taken to preserve and improve, by suitable and frequent oral exercises, whatever powers of speech and ability to read the lips are possessed by students on entering the College.

ADMISSION.

Applicants for admission to the Introductory Class are required to be able to express their thoughts in connected English and to comprehend the language of the ordinary text-books of the common schools. A command of English to this extent is essential to the satisfactory and successful prosecution of the studies of this class. Pupils born deaf, or deaf from early infancy, who have acquired this ability and are also well grounded in the elementary studies of the public schools, may be encouraged to seek the privileges of the College. In the case of pupils who retain a fair command of language after becoming deaf, the danger of superficial preparation in the rudiments of the elementary studies is very great. Such pupils should be made acquainted with the real state of affairs, and should not be recommended for admission to the Introductory Class without thorough training in the elementary branches. In all cases thorough familiarity with arithmetic is insisted upon.

Candidates for the Introductory Class are examined in the following subjects :

1. The command of English, as shown (1) in oral or finger-spelled conversation ; (2) in rendering, at sight, paragraphs selected from school-books and from newspapers ; (3) in extemporaneous English composition. Candidates for admission to the Introductory Class are expected to present evidence of having read carefully a given number of prescribed books, and to answer simple questions upon the lives of their authors. The form of examination will usually be the writing of a paragraph or two on each of several topics, to be chosen by the candidate from a considerable number—say ten or fifteen—set before him in the examination paper. His treatment of these topics is taken as a test of the candidate's power of clear and accurate expression, but will call for only a general knowledge of the subject-matter of the book. In place of a part or the whole of this test, the candidate may present an exercise book, properly certified by his instructor, containing compositions or other written work done in connection with the reading of the books.

Books to be read for the examination of 1904 :

GULLIVER'S TRAVELS, by Jonathan Swift (The Voyages to Lilliput and Brobdignag).

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, in "Little Masterpieces" Series. Cloth, 30c. Doubleday and McClure Co., New York.

THE PILOT, by James Fenimore Cooper.

BLACK BEAUTY, by Anna Sewell.

SOHRAB AND RUSTUM, by Matthew Arnold, in "Poems of Knightly Adventure."

All of the above, except "Benjamin Franklin," are published in suitable form by the University Publishing Co., 43-47 E. 10th Street, New York, in their "Standard Literature Series." The price of the first is 12½ cents in paper and 20 cents in cloth ; the last three, 20 cents each, paper ; 30 cents, cloth. Special prices are given for ten or more numbers.

2. Arithmetic.

3. English Grammar.

4. History of the United States.

5. History of England to the beginning of the reign of Henry VII.

6. Political Geography.
7. Physical Geography.
8. Elements of Natural Philosophy.*

It will be noticed that preparation for these examinations only requires proficiency within the curriculum of the common schools. Candidates for the Introductory Class are not examined in Latin or Algebra, as these studies are begun in this class.

Candidates for the Freshman Class are examined in all the studies of the Introductory Class, in addition to the studies required for admission to that class. In the Latin examination less importance is attached to the amount of literature read than to the familiarity with the essential principles of Latin etymology and syntax evinced in translating and parsing selections from any familiar author.

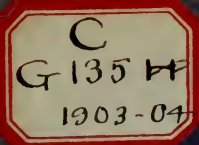

Testimonials of good moral character are required of all applicants for admission.

The charge for board and tuition in the College is two hundred and fifty dollars for the academic year. Congress, however, makes provision for the free admission of residents of the District of Columbia who have not the means of supporting themselves, and for a limited number from the States and Territories.

Applicants for admission may, if they so desire, be examined at the schools where they are making preparation for College, and question papers will be furnished on the application of any Principal or Superintendent of an Institution or School for the Deaf. Such Principals or Superintendents are requested to write for examination papers on or before May 15, in each year. The examinations are to be held in all the schools at the same time, namely on the first Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in June, in each year; and the papers of the candidates are to be despatched to the College on the Saturday immediately following.

All applications for information or admission should be addressed to the President of the College, Kendall Green, near Washington, D. C.

*In preparing for the Introductory Class the following text-books are preferred: Houston's Physical Geography, Higginson's History of the United States, Gage's Introduction to Physical Science, Longman's School Grammar, Higginson and Channing's English History, and the Franklin or Eaton's Grammar-School Arithmetic, or a work of equal grade. Pupils are recommended to master Miss Barton's Language Lessons in Arithmetic before studying a Grammar-School Arithmetic.

STATUE OF THOMAS HOPKINS GALLAUDET. FOUNDER OF DEAF-MUTE EDUCATION IN AMERICA.

The Name of the College.

In 1893 a petition from the Alumni was presented to the Board of Directors, praying that the name of the College, which was then the National Deaf-Mute College, might be changed to Gallaudet College, in honor of Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet, the founder of deaf-mute instruction in America, a bronze statue of whom had been placed on the College grounds by the deaf people of the United States in 1889.

After careful consideration the directors decided, unanimously, to act favorably on the petition of the Alumni, and the new name of the College was announced by President Welling of Columbian University, a member of the Board, on Presentation Day, May 2, 1894.

Instruction.

Moral and religious culture is specially provided for by regular daily and Sunday exercises, in which the Faculty and all the students participate.

Instruction in Drawing and in Book-keeping is provided for all students who desire to take lessons in these subjects.

Systematic physical training, under the direction of instructors, in a well equipped gymnasium, is required of both sexes throughout the course.

The courses of instruction and study in the arts and sciences, as set forth in the following outline, are given substantially as they have been pursued, with but slight variations from time to time, for a number of years.

The system of instruction includes the recitation of assigned subjects; discussions and lectures; work in laboratories and with instruments; courses of reading directed by members of the Faculty, and practice in English composition.

The entire curriculum, including an introductory year, embraces a period of five years, each of which is divided into three terms.

Instruction in articulation and speech-reading is offered to all the students of the College, provision having been made for this by Congress. Special pains are taken to preserve and improve, by suitable and frequent oral exercises, whatever power of speech and ability to read the lips are possessed by students on entering College.

OUTLINE OF THE CURRICULUM. INTRODUCTORY COURSE.

LANGUAGE.—A review of English grammar, elementary and advanced, extends through two terms. The third term is devoted mainly to the study of the principles of composition; this includes a thorough examination of the rules of punctuation, a course in theme-writing, and the study of idiomatic phrases.

Latin is studied throughout the year. The text-book is “Collar & Daniell’s First Year Latin.” In the last term a portion of the second book of Cæsar’s Gallic War is read.

MATHEMATICS.—Wentworth’s Algebra is the text-book, which is studied throughout the year. Quadratic equations are completed in the third term, and Algebra is then discontinued until the last term of the Freshman year. Much attention is given to the elucidation of problems, many of which are taken from other text-books. In comprehending these, some deaf-mutes labor under peculiar difficulties, not from lack of reasoning power, but from insufficient or defective training in English during their previous instruction.

HISTORY.—Higginson’s English History is a half-study, alternating with English Grammar. Illustrations of the principles enunciated in the Grammar are sought out, words are defined, idiomatic phrases are explained, and peculiar constructions are elucidated by parsing, and by diagrams and symbols. A thorough mastery of the text is expected; the position of all countries and the geographical features mentioned in the text are required to be indicated on skeleton maps of Europe and adjacent countries, and strict attention to the chronology is enforced. The class reads from the beginning of the reign of Henry VII.

UNDERGRADUATE COURSE OF STUDY FOR THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF ARTS.

The College makes provision for thorough instruction in the essentials of a liberal education, without attempting to do the special work of the polytechnic schools on the one hand or that of the University on the other. The course of higher instruction leading to collegiate degrees occupies four years, and embraces courses in (1) Languages, ancient and modern, (2) Mathematics, (3) Natural Science, (4) History, and (5) Philosophy and Political Science. The arrangement of the studies by years is given in the Synopsis which follows this descriptive outline.

I.—LANGUAGE.

MODERN LANGUAGES.

HISTORY OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE.—Text-books: Johnson's English Words and Hadley's Brief History; third term of the Junior year. The students bring in on paper an epitome of the topics in the lesson, or such written exercises as are called for by the text. Their comprehension is tested by questions, and the exercises are supplemented by brief lectures on the part of the instructor.

HISTORY AND CRITICISM OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.—The text-book is R. P. Halleck's History of English Literature. The time given is the second term of the Sophomore year and the third term of the Senior year. Some reading of the works of each author mentioned in the text-book is required, and occasionally an entire work of some author is selected for perusal and critical analysis, and the results given in writing. Now and then an essay is required, giving an estimate of some author, as derived from sources outside of the text-book.

ENGLISH COMPOSITION.—Hill's Principles of Rhetoric is studied in the third term of the Sophomore year, and daily written exercises are exacted. Frequent exercises in original composition are required of students in all the classes throughout the five years' course. In the revision of these exercises all the Faculty take part, each member having a section. The revision is usually done in the presence of the writer, and by the writer when possible.

FRENCH AND GERMAN.—Both French and German are required in the course, French being studied in the Junior and German in the Senior year, with daily recitations during the three terms. With both these languages the attempt is made to give a thorough comprehension of their grammatical forms and principles, the peculiarities of their idioms, and their relations to English, and especially to render the students skilful, accurate, and ready in translation. In French, Grandgent's Essentials of Grammar and Aldrich and Foster's Reader are used, with supplementary reading of French texts varied from year to year. The corresponding course in German consists of Lange's Method, with supplementary reading of German texts. The students are also encouraged to pursue independent courses of reading.

ANCIENT LANGUAGES.

LATIN.—There are daily recitations in Latin throughout the Freshman year and the first term of the Sophomore year. In the Freshman year, part of Cæsar's Gallic War, and several of Cicero's Orations, are read; in the Sophomore year, a part of Virgil's Æneid. Special attention is paid to the construction and analysis of the language, to extemporaneous Latin composition based upon the text under consideration, and to Latin etymology in its bearings upon our own tongue. While the authors read are for the most part such as the Faculty would prefer, if practicable, to confine to the Introductory Course, and while—owing to the prominence given to French and German, and especially to the composition and critical study of English—the time devoted to the ancient languages is less than in the usual curriculum of American colleges, it is believed that Latin is taught in such a manner as to awaken in the students the true spirit of classical scholarship, and enable them subsequently to read more difficult authors, independently, with pleasure and profit.

GREEK.—The study of Greek is optional; the course marked out by the Faculty, comprising White's Beginner's Book, Goodwin's Grammar, and Xenophon's Anabasis in the Freshman year, Homer's Iliad in the Sophomore year, and Demosthenes on the Crown in the Junior year, has been successfully pursued to a greater or less extent by several students.

II.—MATHEMATICS.

GEOMETRY.—The Freshmen study Geometry throughout the year, using Wentworth's Geometry as the text-book. The work of each student varies between written demonstrations and those given by speech or dactylology at the blackboard in presence of the whole class. Numerous theorems not demonstrated and problems not solved in the text-book are given to test the ability and proficiency of the class.

ALGEBRA, having been studied throughout the Introductory year, is resumed, and the subjects of the theory of exponents, ratio and proportion, variation, series, the binomial theorem, and the theory and structure of logarithms are studied in the third term.

TRIGONOMETRY, with its applications, is studied throughout the Sophomore year. The text-book is Wentworth's Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, with its Applications to Mensuration, Surveying and Navigation. Analytical Geometry and Differential Calculus are optional studies.

MECHANICS.—In the first term of the Junior year the elementary propositions of Mechanics are mathematically demonstrated, and illustrated by numerous practical problems. The text-book is Dana's Mechanics.

In all the studies of the mathematical course much original work of an elementary and practical character is required, and it is believed that students who have mastered this course are prepared to undertake the study of the higher branches of mathematics.

III.—NATURAL SCIENCE.

CHEMISTRY.—The Sophomores use Newell's Descriptive Chemistry to gain knowledge of the principles of General Chemistry. Each student is expected to perform as many of the experiments laid down in the text-book as practicable, and is required to make notes on all his laboratory work. The Juniors engage in laboratory work for one term, making use of standard works for guidance in Qualitative Analysis. The aim of the entire course in Chemistry and Analysis is to train students to habits of accuracy in observation and reasoning, and to lay a foundation for more advanced scientific work.

NATURAL PHILOSOPHY.—The Juniors study hydrostatics, pneumatics, magnetism, electricity, heat and light for two terms as set forth in Wentworth and Hill's text-book of Physics.

Young's ASTRONOMY is studied for one term in the Senior year, and from the new Observatory opportunity is given, when the conditions favor, to observe the heavenly bodies through one of Clark's four-inch telescopes.

BOTANY occupies one term of the Sophomore year, and students are required to sustain an examination in physiological and structural botany, and also to be able to describe fully and determine the names of ordinary plants, excluding only a few of the more difficult families.

ZOOLOGY.—The Sophomores study the elements of zoölogy, including physiology and the general principles of classification, during one term.

GEOLOGY AND MINERALOGY are studied in the second term of the Senior year.

Whenever practicable, use is made of one of Beck's binocular microscopes, with the manipulation of which the students are familiarized. Morton's college lantern is also used for purposes of illustration.

IV.—HISTORY.

ANCIENT HISTORY.—The study of Labberton's Universal History and Myers's General History occupies the first term of the Freshman year, and includes a brief survey of the minor monarchies of the ancient world, and a more detailed study of the four great empires, Egypt, Persia, Greece, and Rome. The geography and chronology are studied with thoroughness, the use of maps and the construction of chronological charts being required. Contemporaneous reading is exacted. The student is also encouraged to apply the knowledge obtained in this study to his reading of the classical authors.

MEDIEVAL AND MODERN HISTORY are taught with the text-books above mentioned during the second term of the Freshman year. Additional information upon the subjects treated is imparted by the professor in connection with the recitations; the students are required to take as much collateral reading as their time will permit; and an essay on some historical subject is required occasionally during the entire term.

V.—PHILOSOPHY AND POLITICAL SCIENCE.

LOGIC.—First term, Senior year: Davis's Elements of Deductive Logic is thoroughly studied, and written exercises upon the principles under consideration are required almost daily.

MENTAL SCIENCE.—During the third term of the Senior year the more important topics of Intellectual Science are studied, with short lectures by the professor. Buell's Essentials of Psychology is the text-book usually employed.

MORAL PHILOSOPHY.—During six weeks of the first term the Seniors have a daily exercise in this study, reading the whole of Haven's Moral Philosophy. Questions are asked on each day's portion of the text-book, and comments are made by the professor.

EVIDENCES OF CHRISTIANITY.—During six weeks of the second term the Seniors have a daily recitation in Butler's Analogy. Dr. Emory's Analysis is used and made the basis of questions. The book is studied without omissions.

POLITICAL ECONOMY.—Perry's text-book is used, with a daily exercise, for six weeks of the first term of the Senior year.

INTERNATIONAL LAW.—Gallaudet's text-book is read, with a daily recitation, during about six weeks of the second term of the Senior year.

ÆSTHETICS.—Bascom's Lectures on the Science of Beauty are read during a part of the last term of the Senior year, with a daily recitation, accompanied by brief lectures from the professor.

TECHNICAL INSTRUCTION AND COURSES LEADING TO THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF SCIENCE.

Students who have completed the Sophomore year without conditions, by special consent of the Faculty, are permitted to pursue, for the remainder of the course, certain studies of a technical and scientific nature leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science. These studies are substituted for equivalents in the academic course.

Permission may be given to students pursuing the academic course to do extra work in science.

At present courses are offered in Civil Engineering and in Chemistry. The studies pursued in connection with the above are: Analytic Geometry, Descriptive Geometry, Differential Calculus, Graphical Statics, Mechanics of Materials, Levelling, Topographical Surveying, Railroad Surveying, Qualitative Analysis, Quantitative Analysis, Assaying, Chemical Preparations, Organic Chemistry, Determinative Mineralogy.

Courses not leading to a degree have also been given in the Chemistry of Soils and Fertilizers, Advanced Botany, Horticulture and in the Practical Applications of Electricity.

POST-GRADUATE NORMAL COURSE.

A post-graduate course in the science and art of instructing the deaf is afforded to a limited number of young hearing persons who desire to become teachers of the deaf.

The course of study includes the means of communicating with the deaf, the teaching of speech, speech-reading, language, and the elementary branches of knowledge; an examination of current methods of instruction, and an outline of the history of the art. The studies are pursued by means of assigned readings, recitations and essays, observation-and-practice classes, and lectures.

SYNOPSIS OF THE COURSE OF STUDY.

INTRODUCTORY COURSE.

(One Year.)

Mathematics.—Wentworth's Algebra (through quadratic equations); Problems from Sheldon's Algebra, and other sources.

English.—Longman's School Grammar (reviewed); Gardiner's Elements of English Composition; General Rules for Punctuation; Higginson and Channing's English History for American Readers; Original composition.

Latin.—Collar & Daniell's First Year Latin; Caesar's Commentaries.

COLLEGIATE COURSE FOR THE DEGREE OF BACHELOR OF ARTS.

The Freshman Year.

Mathematics.—Wentworth's Treatise on Algebra (from Quadratics); Wentworth's Geometry; Original exercises.

English.—Original composition.

Latin.—Caesar's Gallic War; Cicero's Orations; Allen and Greenough's Latin Grammar.

Greek (an optional study).—White's Beginner's Greek Book; Goodwin's Greek Grammar; Xenophon's Anabasis.

History.—Myers's General History; Labberton's Universal History.

The Sophomore Year.

Mathematics.—Wentworth's Plane and Spherical Trigonometry; Original exercises; Nichols's Analytical Geometry (optional).

Zoölogy.—Orton's Zoölogy. Walker's Physiology.

Botany.—Bergen's Foundations of Botany.

Chemistry.—Newell's Descriptive Chemistry; Laboratory Practice.

Latin.—Virgil's Æneid.

Greek.—Homer's Iliad (optional).

English.—R. P. Halleck's History of English Literature; Readings from English Authors; Hill's Principles of Rhetoric; Original composition.

The Junior Year.

Mathematics.—Bowser's Calculus (optional); Dana's Mechanics.

Physics.—Wentworth and Hill's text-book of Physics.

Chemistry.—Qualitative Analysis.

French.—Grandgent's Essentials of French Grammar, and Aldrich and Foster's Reader; Various French texts.

Greek.—Demosthenes on the Crown (optional).

English.—Johnson's English Words; Hadley's Brief History of the English Language; Original composition.

The Senior Year.

English.—Readings in English Literature ; Original composition.

German.—Lange's German Method ; Various German texts.

Natural Science.—Le Conte's Geology ; Young's Astronomy.

Mental Science.—Davis's Elements of Deductive Logic ; Buell's Essentials of Psychology.

Moral Science.—Haven's Moral Philosophy ; Butler's Analogy.

Aesthetics.—Bascom's Elements of Beauty.

Political Philosophy.—Perry's Political Economy ; Gallaudet's International Law.

General Information

ADMISSION.

Applicants for admission to the Introductory Class are required to be able to express their thoughts in connected English and to comprehend the language of the ordinary text-books of the common schools. A command of English to this extent is essential to the satisfactory and successful prosecution of the studies of this Class. Pupils born deaf, or deaf from early infancy, who have acquired this ability and are also well grounded in the elementary studies of the public schools, may be encouraged to seek the privileges of the College. In the case of pupils who retain a fair command of language after becoming deaf, the danger of superficial preparation in the rudiments of the elementary studies is very great. Such pupils should be made acquainted with the real state of affairs, and should not be recommended for admission to the Introductory Class without thorough training in the elementary branches. In all cases thorough familiarity with arithmetic is insisted upon.

Candidates for the Introductory Class are examined in the following subjects:*

1. The command of English as shown (1) in oral or finger-spelled conversation; (2) in rendering, at sight, paragraphs selected from books and from newspapers; (3) in extemporaneous English composition.

2. English Grammar.

3. A course of Reading, the list of books to be read being prescribed and varied from year to year.

* In preparing for the Introductory Class, the following text-books are preferred: Frye's Geography, Higginson's History of the United States, Houston's Intermediate Lessons in Natural Philosophy, Longman's School Grammar, Higginson and Channing's English History, and the Franklin, or Thomson's Grammar-School Arithmetic, or some work of equal grade; it is important that applicants cultivate the ability to construe the language of arithmetical problems.

Books to be read for the examination of 1905 :

ADVENTURES OF ULYSSES, by Charles Lamb. Harper & Bro.

TALES FROM SCOTTISH HISTORY, edited by W. J. Rolfe. Harper & Bro.

BIOGRAPHICAL AND OTHER STORIES, by Nathaniel Hawthorne. Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

EVANGELINE, by H. W. Longfellow. Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON, edited by J. H. Stickney. Ginn & Co.

The form of examination in these readings may be inferred from the specimen paper given elsewhere. As will be seen, it calls for only a general knowledge of the subject-matter of the books.

4. Arithmetic.
5. History of the United States.
6. History of England to the beginning of the reign of Henry VII.
7. Political Geography.
8. Physical Geography.
9. Elements of Natural Philosophy.

It will be noticed that thorough preparation for these examinations only requires proficiency within the curriculum of the common schools. Candidates for the Introductory Class are not examined in Latin nor in Algebra, as these studies are begun in this class.

The character of the examinations for admission is indicated by the specimen papers given on the following pages.

Students not able to make satisfactory preparation elsewhere in all the Grammar-School studies required for admission to this class are permitted to enter the Kendall School, where they will have an opportunity to complete their preparation for College.

Candidates for the Freshman Class are examined in all the studies required for admission to the Introductory Class, as well as in all the studies of the latter class. In the Latin examination less importance is attached to the amount of literature read than to the familiarity with the essential principles of Latin etymology and syntax evinced in translating selections from any familiar author.

Testimonials of good moral character are required of all applicants for admission.

The charge for board and tuition in the College is two hundred and fifty dollars for the academic year. Congress, however, makes provision for the free admission of residents of the District of Columbia who have not the means of supporting themselves, and for those whose fathers are in the military or naval service of the United States. To students from the States and Territories who have not the means of defraying all the expenses of the College course the Board of Directors is authorized by Congress to render such assistance as circumstances seem to require, and as far as the means at its disposal for this object will allow.

All applications for admission should be addressed to the President.

EXAMINATIONS.

At the close of each term there are written examinations in all the studies of the term.

A record is kept by the Faculty, which shows the standing in study of each student for every term, as determined from the recitations and the examinations, both being graded on a scale of 10. A student whose combined mark falls below 6.5, in any subject, or mark in examination below 5.5, is conditioned. The "condition" may be removed by obtaining a mark of 6.5 upon re-examination. The members of the graduating class have public parts on Presentation Day. Original dissertations are delivered by those whose average for the College course is below 8, and orations by those who attain a higher standing.

DEGREES.

The corporation is authorized by an act of Congress to confer "such degrees in the arts and sciences as are usually granted in colleges."

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred on students who have sustained examinations on the full College course of four years, and who have paid all their dues to the College.

Students so desiring are permitted to pursue a selected course of study extending through four years, the satisfactory completion of which will entitle them to receive the degree of Bachelor of Science, of Philosophy, or of Literature.

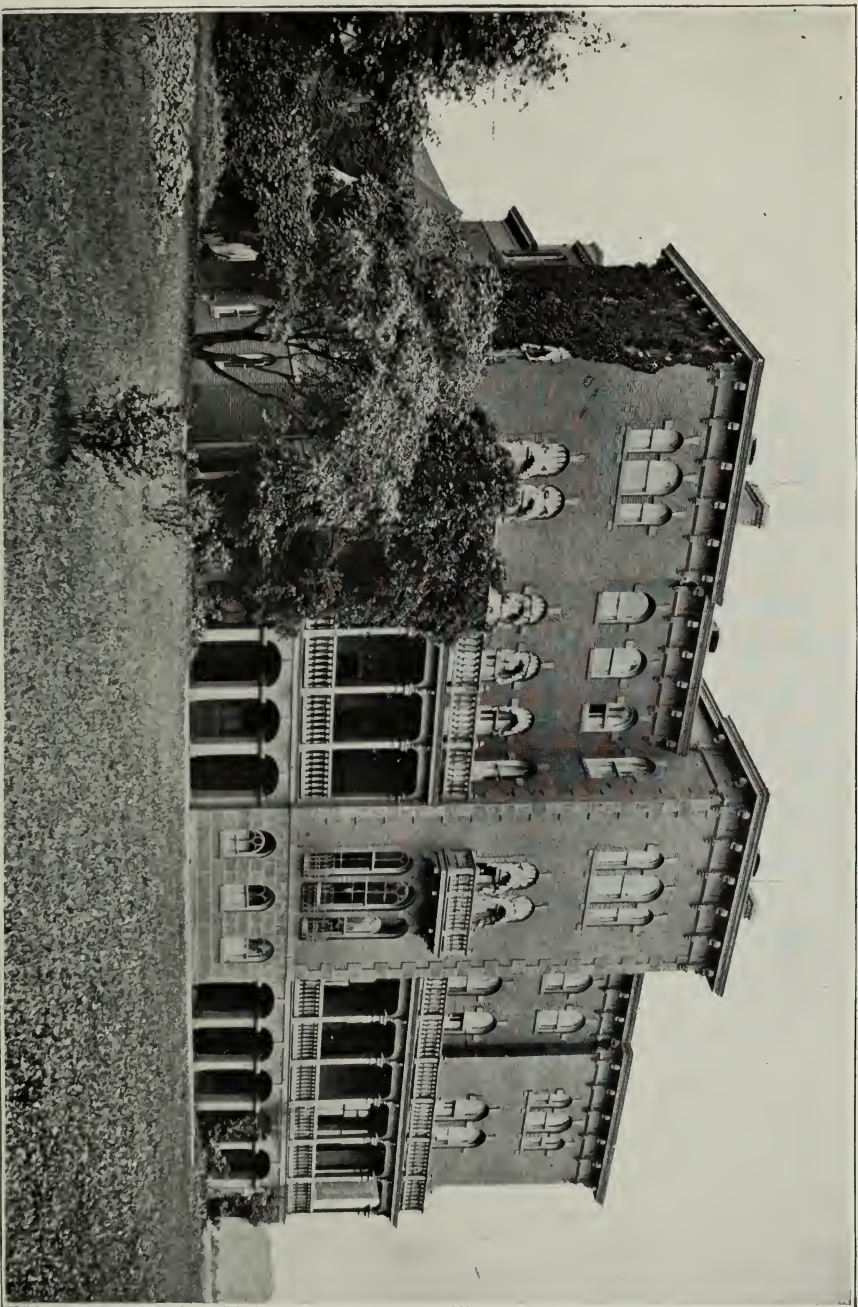

The Master's degree will be conferred, in course, on graduates of not less than three years' standing who shall furnish the Faculty with satisfactory evidence of their having made substantial progress in science, philosophy, literature, or the liberal arts since their graduation. Application for this degree should be made to the President of the College in writing.

The Master's degree is also conferred on those graduates of the normal department who have previously taken the Bachelor's degree.

AUXILIARY PRIVILEGES.

The students maintain a literary society, a library, and a reading-room. They also have access to the College and Institution libraries and to the educational collections in the College museum.

The Library of Congress, and the collections of the Smithsonian Institution, the National Museum, the Corcoran Gallery of the Fine Arts, and other collections of the National Capital, open to the public, are of inestimable value to the students of the College.

DORMITORY FOR FEMALE STUDENTS AND PUPILS.

Specimens of Examination Papers.

FOR ADMISSION TO THE INTRODUCTORY CLASS.

Natural Philosophy.

1. Define elasticity ; compressibility ; porosity.
2. What is cohesion ? adhesion ?
3. How do liquids differ from solids ?
4. Describe a barometer. What is the use of a barometer ?
5. What is a transparent body ? an opaque body ?
6. The forms of lenses are as follows :
 1. Double convex.
 2. Plano convex.
 3. Concavo convex.
 4. Double concave.
 5. Plano concave.

Illustrate the above forms by drawings.

7. At what degree of temperature Fahrenheit does water boil ? At what temperature does water freeze ?
8. Describe some experiment that you have seen performed in electricity. What apparatus was used ? What was the experiment intended to prove ?

Physical Geography.

1. Describe the Mississippi Basin.
2. Define valley ; plateau ; water-shed ; coastal plain ; flood plain ; delta.
3. Draw a map showing the physical geography of the State in which you live.
4. Tell what you can of the structure, location, causes and action of volcanoes.
5. Describe the physical geography of Australia.

Political Geography.

1. Bound the State of Pennsylvania.
2. Name two States of largest area ; two of smallest area ; two States having a large population ; two States having a small population.
3. In what State is each of the following : Penobscot Bay ; Narragansett Bay ; Puget Sound ; the Mohawk River ; Great Salt Lake ?

4. Name the largest lake port or sea port in each of the following States, and give the name of the body of water on which each port is situated : (a) Minnesota ; (b) Pennsylvania ; (c) Texas ; (d) California ; (e) Maine.

5. Name the largest city (a) in Rhode Island ; (b) in Oregon ; (c) the capital of Louisiana ; (d) the capital of Ohio ; (e) the capital of Virginia.

6. Name the bodies of water, natural or artificial, through which a cargo of wheat would pass from Duluth to New York city.

7. Name four metals found in large quantities in the United States. Name the State or States where each is found in large quantities.

8. Name two great rivers of India that rise in the Himalaya Mountains ; (b) two great rivers of Africa ; (c) four great rivers of Europe ; (d) two great rivers of South America.

9. In what country is each of the following cities : Bremen ; Buenos Ayres ; Yokohama ; Cape Town ; Havre ; Melbourne ; Parama ; Manila ; Ottawa ; Teheran ?

10. Name the principal volcanoes of the world.

Arithmetic.

1. Write in figures : Seventy thousand and forty-two and decimal sixteen ten-thousandths. Write in words : 36,01001.

2. Define and give an example of a " factor " and of the " least common multiple."

3. Add $\frac{1}{3}$ of $\frac{3\frac{1}{2}}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{8} \div 9\frac{1}{2}$.

4. What is the greatest length of flooring that can be used without cutting for three floors that are respectively 24, 36 and 60 feet long ?

5. What is the cost of a field 173 rods long and 84 rods wide at $25.60 per acre ?

6. (Solve first by proportion and then by analysis.)

If a man borrows $1750 and keeps it 1 yr. 8 mo., how long should he lend $1200 to repay the favor ?

7. A man bought 40 head of sheep for $120. He sold 8 head for $25.00. Did he gain or lose on those he sold, and what per cent. ?

8. A note of $1800 bearing interest at 6 per cent. and dated June 12, 1886, was endorsed Oct. 15, 1886, $150. What was due on it Dec. 21, 1887 ?

9. Multiply the square of $4\frac{1}{2}$ by the cube root of 216.

History of the United States.

Give the dates of all events mentioned in your paper.

1. Give some account of the settling of Connecticut.

2. What caused the American Revolution ?

3. Why did eleven States try to secede from the Union in 1860—61? What States were they?

4. What was the comparative strength of the North and of the South at the opening of the Civil War? What was the Union plan for carrying on the war?

5. Write very briefly about each of the following men:

Ethan Allen.	Bartholomew Gosnold.
Benedict Arnold.	Alexander Hamilton.
General Braddock.	Paul Jones.
Rev. John Eliot.	Robert de la Salle.
David G. Farragut.	Eli Whitney.

English History.

1. In what ways was the Roman conquest good for Britain?

2. How many conquests of England were there from the time of the Romans to the reign of Henry VII? By whom was each made?

3. Tell all you can (including dates) about Alfred the Great and his reign.

4. What was the Magna Charta? What did it secure to the people? What were John's real intentions when he signed this charter?

5. Give the causes and results of the "Wars of the Roses."

English Grammar.

"In life we shall find many men that are great, and some men that are good, but very few men that are both great and good."—Colton.

1. What kind of a sentence is the above quotation?

2. Analyse: "In life we shall find many men that are great."

3. Compare the adjectives many, great, few, good, young, clever.

4. In the quotation find an adverb, and an adverbial phrase. Tell what each modifies.

5. Turn the following sentences into question-form: (a) My aunt has called. (b) Boys work to please their teacher. (c) The trees are shaking in the wind. (d) Moses possessed meekness. (e) Cæsar invaded Britain.

6. Write three sentences using the word but

(a) as a conjunction,

(b) as a preposition,

(c) as an adverb.

7. Write sentences, using

(a) a personal pronoun,

(b) a reflexive pronoun,

(c) a relative pronoun,

(d) an interrogative pronoun.

8. Determine the case of each "what": (a) The man means what he says.

(b) I know what you came for; (c) What they ask is reasonable; (d) What is worth doing at all is worth doing well; (e) Everybody knew what he was aiming at.

9. Give the principal parts of: lie, lay, take, wake, make, find, swim, buy, go, do.

10. Write sentences, using each of the following words in two ways, 1st as transitive verbs, 2d as intransitive verbs:—call, answer, beat, whistle, see, play.

Composition—I.

1. Change the following conversation into a story:

Haco.—Whither go we, Harold?

Harold.—We go to visit the young Atheling, the natural heir to the Saxon throne. He lodges in the old palace of our Kings.

Haco.—They say in Normandy that the boy is imbecile.

Harold.—That is not true. I will present thee to him—judge.

Alfred.—Methinks—and may I think aright—thou comest hither with the same purpose as myself and you noble thegns.

Harold.—And that purpose?

Alfred.—To see and judge calmly if we may find in the descendant of the Ironsides such a prince as we may commend to our decaying prince as his heir, and to the Witan as a chief fit to defend the land.

Harold.—Thou speakest the cause of my own coming.

Edgar.—There, come not too near, you scare my hawk. What are you doing? You trample my toys, which the good Norman Bishop William sent me as a gift from the Duke. Art thou blind, man?

Alfred.—My son; these are the things of childhood. Leave thy lure and thy toys, and welcome these noble thegns, and address them, so please you, in our Saxon tongue.

Edgar.—Saxon tongue—language of villeins! not I. Little do I know of it save to scold a ceorl or nurse.

Harold.—Edgar, the Atheling, thou art not so young but thou knowest already that the great live for others. Wilt thou not be proud to live for this fair country, and these noble men, and to speak the language of Alfred the Great?

Edgar.—Alfred the Great! they always weary me with Alfred the Great. If I am Atheling, men are to live for me, not I for them; and if you tease me any more I will run away to Duke William at Rouen: Godfroi says I shall never be teased there.

Margaret.—Fie! If you behave thus, I shall call you NIDDERING!

Edgar.—Call me what you will, silly sister. I am not so Saxon as to care for your ceorlish names.

A Thegn.—Enow; he who can be called nidding shall never be crowned king.

Edgar.—I don't want to be crowned king, rude man, with your ugly moustache; I want to be made knight, and have a banner and baldric. Go away!

Alred.—We go, son.

A Thegn.—Fit leader of bearded men ! Fit King for the Saxon land ! No more of your Atheling, Alred, my father !

Alred.—No more of him.

Haco.—Who, then ? Who then ? (pardon the ignorance of youth wasted in captivity abroad) who, then, failing the Atheling, will save this realm from the Norman Duke, who, I know well, counts on it as the reaper on the harvest ripening to his sickle ?

Alred.—Alas ! Who then ?

Three Thegns.—Who then ? Why the worthiest, the wisest, the bravest ! Stand forth Harold, the Earl,—thou art the man !

COMPOSITION—II.

2. Change the following into a dialogue :

Wolfert's luck followed him into retirement at the Roost. He had shut himself up from the world, but he had brought with him a wife, and it soon passed into a proverb throughout the neighborhood that the cock of the roost was the most hen-pecked bird in the country. His house, too, was reputed to be harrassed by Yankee witchcraft. When the weather was quiet everywhere else, the wind, it was said, would howl and whistle about the gables ; witches and warlocks would whirl about upon the weather-cocks and scream down the chimneys ; nay, it was even hinted that Wolfert's wife was in league with the enemy, and used to ride on a broomstick to a witches' Sabbath in Sleepy Hollow. This, however, was all mere scandal, founded perhaps on her occasionally flourishing a broomstick in the course of a curtain lecture, or raising a storm within doors, as termagant wives are apt to do, and against which sorcery horse-shoes are of no avail.

3. Describe in a letter to a friend the advantages and disadvantages of the possession of the Philippines by the United States.

COURSES OF STUDY.

The College makes provision for thorough instruction in the essentials of a liberal education, without attempting to do the special work of the polytechnic schools on the one hand or that of the university on the other. The course of higher instruction leading to collegiate degrees occupies four years, and embraces courses in (1) Languages, ancient and modern, (2) Mathematics, (3) Natural Science, (4) History, and (5) Philosophy and Political Science. Further information upon this head may be had upon application to the President.

ORAL INSTRUCTION.

Instruction in articulation and speech-reading is offered to all the students of the College. Special pains are taken to preserve and improve, by suitable and frequent oral exercises, whatever powers of speech and ability to read the lips are possessed by students on entering the College.

ADMISSION.

Applicants for admission to the Introductory Class are required to be able to express their thoughts in connected English and to comprehend the language of the ordinary text-books of the common schools. A command of English to this extent is essential to the satisfactory and successful prosecution of the studies of this class. Pupils born deaf, or deaf from early infancy, who have acquired this ability and are also well grounded in the elementary studies of the public schools, may be encouraged to seek the privileges of the College. In the case of pupils who retain a fair command of language after becoming deaf, the danger of superficial preparation in the rudiments of the elementary studies is very great. Such pupils should be made acquainted with the real state of affairs, and should not be recommended for admission to the Introductory Class without thorough training in the elementary branches. In all cases thorough familiarity with arithmetic is insisted upon.

Candidates for the Introductory Class are examined in the following subjects :

1. The command of English, as shown (1) in oral or finger-spelled conversation ; (2) in rendering at sight paragraphs selected from school-books and from newspapers ; (3) in extemporaneous English composition. Candidates for admission to the Introductory Class are expected to present evidence of having read carefully a given number of prescribed books, and to answer simple questions upon the lives of their authors. The form of examination will usually be the writing of a paragraph or two on each of several topics, to be chosen by the candidate from a considerable number—say ten or fifteen—set before him in the examination paper. His treatment of these topics is taken as a test of the candidate's power of clear and accurate expression, but will call for only a general knowledge of the subject-matter of the book. In place of a part or the whole of this test, the candidate may present an exercise book, properly certified by his instructor, containing compositions or other written work done in connection with the reading of the books.

Books to be read for the examination of 1906 :

RIP VAN WINKLE, and other American Essays, by Washington Irving. Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s "Riverside Literature Series." 15 cents in paper covers.

ULYSSES AMONG THE PHAEACIANS, from W. C. Bryant's translation of Homer's Odyssey. Publishers and price as above.

TALES OF CHIVALRY, selected from the works of Sir Walter Scott and edited by W. J. Rolfe. Harper & Bros. Cloth. 36 cents.

LIFE AND ADVENTURES OF ROBINSON CRUSOE, by Daniel De Foe. Ginn & Co.'s Classics for Children. Boards, 35 cents.

2. Arithmetic.
3. English Grammar.
4. History of the United States.
5. History of England.

6. Political and Physical Geography.
7. Elements of Natural Philosophy. *

It will be noticed that preparation for these examinations only requires proficiency within the curriculum of the common schools. Candidates for the Introductory Class are not examined in Latin or Algebra, as these studies are begun in this class.

Candidates for the Freshman Class are examined in all the studies of the Introductory Class, in addition to the studies required for admission to that class. In the Latin examination less importance is attached to the amount of literature read than to the familiarity with the essential principles of Latin etymology and syntax evinced in translating and parsing selections from any familiar author.

Testimonials of good moral character are required of all applicants for admission.

The charge for board and tuition in the College is two hundred and fifty dollars for the academic year. Congress, however, makes provision for the free admission of residents of the District of Columbia who have not the means of supporting themselves, and for a limited number from the States and Territories.

Applicants for admission may, if they so desire, be examined at the schools where they are making preparation for College, and question papers will be furnished on the application of any Principal or Superintendent of an Institution or School for the Deaf. Such Principals or Superintendents are requested to write for examination papers not later than the first week in May, in each year. The examinations are to be held in all the schools at the same time, namely on the three successive days beginning the last Wednesday in May, in each year, and the papers of the candidates are to be dispatched to the College on the Saturday immediately following.

All applications for information or admission should be addressed to the President of the College, Kendall Green, near Washington, to C.

* In preparing for the Introductory Class, the following text-books are preferred: Frye's Geography, Higginson's History of the United States, Houston's Intermediate Lessons in Natural Philosophy, Longman's School Grammar, Higginson and Channing's English History, and the Franklin, or Thomson's Grammar-School Arithmetic, or some works of equal grade; it is important that applicants cultivate the ability to construe the language of arithmetical problems.
